AN INDIAN AMBUSH.

FRIGHTENED WILD ANIMALS PREVENT A HORRIBLE MASSACRE.

A Campaigner Relates a Thrilling Episode of the Struggle With Indians in the Northwest—The Shrewd Disposition of a Half-Breed Guide Saved Two Lives.

We were going down the peninsula formed by the junction of the Yellowstone and Little Missouri rivers, hoping to intercept the Indians and turn them back. It had been a hard, swift march—a mile of over 400 miles—with no halt above four hours, and at 10 o'clock in the forenoon the Indians were sleeping in their saddles as their lean and lame horses picked their way over the rough ground.

We had planned to reach the spot where the fleeing Indians would cross the Little Missouri a day or two ahead of them. We believed we had accomplished it. At 10 o'clock we were within two miles of the spot. Then the head of the column halted for the men to close up. Our line had a rung out for a mile or more. Between us and the crossing, as the half was made, nature had made a highway. It was a grassy road about 20 feet wide, twisting and turning like a creek. Half a mile down the highway it was crossed by a creek with steep banks. Half a mile farther on was a second creek. It was hardly more than a rivulet at this season, but the width from bank to bank was 40 feet, and the banks were 10 feet high. Our guide had never passed over the route.

No man in the column of 200 men knew what lay beyond the first turn. The halt to close up was a precautionary measure, but no one dreamed of danger. If the hostile Indians had not turned back or changed their route, they should be 40 or 50 miles to the south. The stragglers had come up, the sleepy troops had braced up under the eyes of their officers, and the bugler was about to sound the forward when the half-breed guide and scout held up his hand in warning. A deer came running up the grassy lane at full speed and was within two feet of the colonel's horse when it wheeled to the right and vanished into the thicket. Next came a fox, who ran under the feet of a dozen horses before he found shelter. Then a second deer, then three or four rabbits.

"What is it?" asks the colonel of the guide.

"An ambush!" was the reply.

"Where?"

The guide waved his hand to signify that it was down the lane somewhere.

"How do you know?"

"See that?"

A big gray wolf rounded the turn 100 feet away, coming at full speed. The hair on his back stood up, his tail clattered dragged, and it was easy to see that he had been disturbed and was put out about it.

"Injuns down there!" said the guide.

"We are too late! They have got here first, and we are in ambush!"

"But what makes you think so?" persisted the colonel, who was impatient to go ahead and yet too prudent to needlessly expose his command.

"Deer-fox-rabbit-wolf!" replied the guide. "All were frightened. All running away from something. Injuns down there waiting for us. We go one way or the other."

We turned to the left and flanked the position. We had made a distance of seven miles when Indians were seen, and skirmishing began, but they soon retreated southward, and as we followed them up they crossed the Little Missouri. It was the band we had hoped to intercept, but why did they turn back without a fight? Everybody was asking the question when a few of us rode off to inspect the ambush. The deathtrap had been set for us between the creeks. The lower end of the avenue had been blocked with felled trees and bushes, and trees partly cut down would have blocked the upper end as soon as the last horseman had passed. The road here narrowed to 15 feet. Wherever there was an opening in the bushes which lined the sides it had been closed with thorns.

From sunrise that morning the Indians had been waiting for us. Almost 200 warriors were in hiding behind the bushes, ready to thrust out their rifles and fire at the signal. Perched in the trees along the way were half a hundred boys armed with bows and arrows. Hidden away under the banks of the creeks were 100 or more squaws armed with hatchets, knives or clubs. It was not to be a battle, but a massacre. No mercy was to be shown—not a prisoner taken. Scouts had observed our approach and reported. When the head of our column had fairly entered the lane, the eager squaws and impulsive boys could hardly be controlled.

In their moving about they frightened the wild animals out of their retreats and sent us the warning. They did not know why we halted, hesitated and then took another way. For half an hour they waited, with the scowl of hate on their bronzed faces, with eyes which glared and glinted as they roamed about in search of the expected prey. Then they whispered to each other:

"They have taken another way! The Great Spirit sent them a warning to turn aside! We cannot fight these men! Let us recross the river and return to the agency!"—Wheeling Register.

WAKE UP.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, Langour, Dull Headache, Despondency, Constipation, take Simmons' Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the furred tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes eat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness—a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.

ADMISSION DAY.

Twenty-nine years ago to-day—October 31, 1864—Nevada was declared a sovereign State and admitted into the Union by proclamation of President Lincoln. The Nation was then in the throes of civil war, government notes were selling in New York at a greater discount than silver bullion is to-day and the gold ring, then, as now, had things its own way. The credit of the Government was way below par; gold and silver were necessary to purchase munitions of war in foreign countries, but the men who were fighting to preserve the Union were paid their monthly pittance of thirteen dollars in depreciated currency worth about half its face value in coin. The President paid a high compliment to the silver miner of Nevada. Silver bullion was on a par with gold and the product of the Comstock was used to uphold the credit of the Government. Nevada, because of its silver mines, was deemed one of the most important States of the Union, as the product of its mines prevented the gold brokers of New York and London from making green-back as valueless as continental money.

The Government has never redeemed its obligations to Nevada. It has erected only two public buildings in the State; it has done nothing to assist in reclaiming its arid lands, and it has not even refunded the money which the State expended in organizing and equipping troops to aid in suppressing the rebellion and subjugate hostile Indians.

Nevada, however, has vast and varied resources. Its mountains abound in minerals; its valleys are unsurpassed in fertility; its climate is as salubrious as any in the world, and sooner or later it will become one of the most prosperous States in the Union, and Admission Day will be celebrated by a sturdy and patriotic people from the Colorado to the confines of Oregon and Idaho to the Colorado river; from Mormonism to the Golden State.

SEEN BY A CRANK.

Carter H. Harrison, Mayor of Chicago, was assassinated in his home Saturday night. The assassin called at his house, apparently cool and collected, inquired for Mr. Harrison and when that gentleman made his appearance (deliberately fired three shots at him, all of which took effect and two of which made mortal wounds. The assassin, having accomplished his purpose, walked to the nearest police station, told the officer on duty what he had done and why he did it. He said the Mayor had promised to make him Corporation Counsel and had not kept his word and that was his sole reason for shooting him. The assassin was a paper carrier, had never studied law and of course was wholly unqualified for the responsible position which he alleged had been promised him by the Mayor. He must therefore have been affected with a delusion which impelled him to commit a deed which could not possibly result in giving him the longest of position.

This place-hunting mania is dangerous to those having authority to appoint men to office. Guiteau, who assassinated President Garfield, was affected with it and crazed by disappointment shot down the President of the United States, while under the hallucination that the President had promised him office and did not keep his promise. That Guiteau was insane there is not much doubt, and that Pronger, who assassinated Mayor Harrison, is similarly affected is almost conclusively proved, and that he will be punished with death is not doubted. That, however, will not deter other lunatics, who imagine they have been promised office, from taking or endangering the lives of public men. As it is impracticable if not impossible to prevent such assassinations by guarding the persons of all officials who are authorized to appoint persons to subordinate positions, every office from the lowest to the highest should be made elective. As it now is a President, Mayor, or other official, having the appointive power, is liable to be shot down at his own house or on the public streets by some crank who imagines that he is entitled to office for fancied services.

WILL THE DEMOCRATS REDEEM THEIR PLEDGE?

The representatives of the Democratic party in National Convention assembled at Chicago in June, 1892, pledged its nominees to repeal the Sherman act of 1890, and to hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal or charge for mintage. Grover Cleveland endorsed that platform and was elected President of the United States. A decisive majority of the House of Representatives was also elected upon that platform pledged to give its declarations effect by legislation. The President by proclamation convened Congress in extra session to redeem a part of the pledge by repealing the Sherman act, but whether intentionally or inadvertently did not allude to the clause relating to the coinage of both gold and silver without discriminating against either metal or charge for mintage.

Now that the Sherman act is virtually repealed will the President and Congress turn their attention to the second clause of the financial plank, pass an act declaring gold and silver the standard money of the country and open the mints without discriminating against either metal or charge for mintage? It is as important to the people that this clause should be redeemed as it was to the gold trust that the act authorizing the purchase of silver bullion should be repealed.

General R. M. Clarke, who was a delegate from Nevada to the Chicago convention, asserted upon his return that the national Democratic platform meant free coinage of both gold and silver, and that every member of the Committee on Platform so construed it, except ex-Congressman Patterson of Colorado, who insisted that the word "free" should be inserted before the words "coinage of both gold and silver." Is General Clarke yet of the opinion that the clause referred to meant free coinage, and, if so, does he believe the Democrats in Congress will pass a free coinage bill and that the President will sign it?

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Morgan Quotes Gorman to Show That Sherman Runs the Democratic Party—Cameron, Stewart, Jones, Allen and Others Speak.

WASHINGTON, October 30.—The galleries were crowded with people when the Senate was called to order. Voorhees announced Saturday that he would call for a final vote on the Repeal bill at 2 p. m. to-day, but as it was known that the bill would be open to amendment this morning there was much speculation as to what propositions might be launched at the last moment by the silver men, who had nothing to lose and everything to gain by a sudden onslaught on the Repeal forces. Several Western Senators had expressed a desire to speak, and as the time to be consumed by each is rather indefinite, the final vote seemed likely to be delayed. There was a manifest determination on the part of the Repeal men to force a vote as soon as possible without violating Senatorial courtesy.

The roll calls showed the presence of 52 members. When consideration of the Repeal bill was resumed Huntton of Virginia said he would vote for unconditional repeal, and then be ready to join his friends in the fight for silver.

Cameron of Pennsylvania said neither side had made a suggestion which, in his opinion, was broad enough. Therefore he had studiously avoided voting for or against the amendments offered. There could be but one solution, that the free coinage of the American silver product was essential to our prosperity. The Senate could not, with self-respect, pass such a measure as this.

It was argued in support of this bill that repeal would force Europe to join us in an agreement for the use of silver. That it was cutting off the American market for silver and would throw fifty million out of business on the European market, in the hope of breaking down the market price. With the deficit of several million per month in the treasury we would do well if we could keep fifty millions in gold in the treasury. We are wasting our silver, our gold, our credit. He would like to have this bill referred to a select committee with instructions to report on further measures to safely carry into effect the legislation proposed some time ago by Morgan of Alabama.

Morgan said the situation in the Senate seemed to him a very lamentable one, which he could speak of only with pain, and which he could contemplate only with serious apprehensions for the future welfare of the country. Morgan said the passage of the bill would be irrevocable surrender to the demands of the most insolent, overbearing corporations.

Morgan then read slowly and with great emphasis these sentences from Gorman's speech of Saturday: "We were compelled to take the terms offered by the Senator from Ohio. He held the key of the situation. You have dictated terms to us." "I thank Almighty God," said Morgan impressively, "that the Senator from Ohio has never had power to dictate terms to me as a Democrat. He may have dictated them to the President, to the committee and to the minority of Democrats on this side, but he cannot dictate to me."

Again quoting from Gorman's speech, Morgan read the sentence as to Sherman laying down conditions.

"He laying down conditions to the Democracy," said Morgan contentedly. "What is the Democratic party worth to itself or to the country, or to posterity, when the Senator from Ohio has the key to the situation and can lay down conditions to it, what is your majority worth?"

Morgan said he had signed the proposed compromise, and had done so in order to have peace and fraternity in the Democratic party. "You commit suicide," said Morgan with a bitter-ness, "because you cannot get a chance to live on fair and even terms with your friends and neighbors."

Vest followed Morgan, and Cockrell followed Vest. Carey desired to explain his position, and Wolcott replied to Carey's personal allusions in a sarcastic manner and ended with the quotation, "That it is a waste of labor to share an ass."

Carey responded by charging that Wolcott left Colorado last Fall to avoid taking part in the campaign and read an article charging the Nevada and Colorado Senators with trading their votes on the force bill for free coinage.

Harris of Tennessee and Wolcott declared that the assertion was false. Stewart offered an amendment, but did not call for ayes and yeas.

Pascoe offered a free coinage amendment, with a seigniorage to be based on the price of bullion, and it was defeated.

The debate was resumed and Jones of Nevada took the floor to conclude his speech in opposition to the bill.

Peffer and Allen signified their intention to speak, the object being to offer amendments and postpone the vote on the bill.

HARRISON'S ASSASSIN.

He Wrote Letters to Washington Indicating That he Disliked the President.

WASHINGTON, October 30.—Pronger's bullet, which took the life of Mayor Carter Harrison, might have found lodgment in the heart of a United States Senator or even of the President of the United States. For full two weeks before the murder of Chicago's Mayor the assassin had been directing messages through the mails to at least one United States Senator, which indicated that his mind was intensely wrought up against President Cleveland. The burden of all these communications was the silver question. Senator Dubois of Idaho and others were recipients of communications, which have been received almost daily since October 9th.

A Brave Young Woman.

TACOMA, October 30.—Miss Laura Beals is a plucky young woman. Two nights ago burglars attempted to force an entrance into the residence of her sister. The entire household was greatly frightened, but Laura picked up a big revolver and fired three shots, smashing a window and perforating a door, but missed the burglars. George Adams has been arrested on suspicion.

A Spanish General Killed.

MADRID, October 30.—General Margallo, Commander-in-Chief of the Spanish troops at Melilla, was shot dead yesterday while leading a sortie against Rifians. Seventy of his men were killed and 122 others wounded. The sortie was made after the Rifians had been driven back to the citadel by the Spaniards, who are building a redoubt near Fort Cabrerizas.

Are the Best

Unlike other cathartics, the effect of Ayer's Pills is to strengthen the excretory organs and restore them their regular and natural action. Doctors everywhere prescribe them. In spite of immense competition, they have always maintained their popularity as a family medicine, being in greater demand now than ever before. They are put up both in vials and boxes, and whether for home use or travel, Ayer's Pills are preferable to any other. Have you ever tried them?

Ayer's Pills

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Every Dose Effective.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly applying the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Attorney General Torreyson was in Reno yesterday on legal business.

General R. M. Clarke of Carson was here yesterday on professional business.

It was reported here yesterday that a Reno couple were married at the State Capital last Sunday.

The work in the Con. Va. mine that is now being done is inspiring the public with renewed confidence in the Comstock.

J. W. Phipps, day yardmaster of the C. P. at Truckee, had one of his arms badly crushed while coupling cars at that place Sunday.

The Chronicle says a Carson woman was held up by a footpad on Thursday, but was talked out of robbing her. Talk is not always futile, even by a woman.

The Eureka, Morgan and Mexican mills on the Carson river are now in full operation—the Eureka working tailings and the others crushing ore from the Comstock.

Judge Hooley arrived yesterday from Incline. He says for the first time in years there will be no wood chopped there this Winter. The depression in mining has paralyzed the wood business.

The Dayton Times says the skeleton found in an old shaft near Silver City and which created such a sensation, was that of a young Plute, who was killed some years ago and buried with his horse in the shaft.

Hallow Eve or Halloween, which is the vigil of All Saints or All Hallows, occurs this evening. In old times it was observed with feasting and prayer, but for many generations past it has been devoted to various kinds of amusements, some of which indulged in by boys are more or less mischievous.

J. F. Dewitt arrived here from Pyramid Lake with several shot in his neck. He said he was shot by C. W. Pearl. Both were working at Calligan's ranch and had a falling out. Pearl got a gun and fired at him and probably would have killed him had not Mr. Calligan and others disarmed him.

Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock while the funeral of Mrs. Helen M. Johnson was passing up Sierra street a two-horse team belonging to some person from Long Valley came down Walnut street and turned into Sierra street. Fortunately the team kept on the west side of the street and did not collide with any of the carriages. The team was caught in front of the Golden Eagle Hotel and it was ascertained that the tongue of the wagon was broken and one of the horses had his right hind foot badly out.

THE TRUE CONDITION OF NEVADA.

Some Comments on Mr. Newlands' Address—How to Effect State Development: Not by Increasing the Acreage of Land, but by Giving our Farmers a Better Market.

In the course of his address to the people at the Courthouse Thursday evening, Congressman Francis G. Newlands called attention to the fact that there was little hope of the rehabilitation of silver for some years to come—at least, not during the term of office of President Cleveland—and in obvious good faith recommended that the people of the State, while not ceasing their agitation in behalf of silver, should turn their attention to the development of the agricultural resources of Nevada.

There was expressed among many an honest difference of opinion with Mr. Newlands, after the close of his speech, upon the immediate practicability of attempting agricultural development. But there was no "impotent wrath of a few narrow-gauged and prejudiced partisans," as the writer who styles himself "Common Sense" in the Gazette would have us to infer; nor was the speech of such a character as to warrant the declaration that because of it, "where he has lost the support of one political crank he has secured that of a dozen fair-minded citizens who formerly ranked among his political opponents." "Common Sense," notwithstanding, it is very probable that the address will never have any important bearing upon Mr. Newlands' political existence.

With this digression, it is the purpose of the present paper to present briefly what the writer believes to be the true condition of the State of Nevada, and some views of the best and most practical way of achieving a more prosperous condition of affairs.

THE STATE BOARD OF TRADE.

The people of Nevada are not confronted with a theory, but a condition. A very large State containing a very small acreage of land under cultivation, and practically no land left that can be brought under cultivation without the outlay of a large amount of capital. It is believed that there is a vast amount of land in the State that water can be got upon in one way or another, and that it will prove a remunerative investment for capital to construct the necessary system of irrigating canals, etc., to make the land productive, but hitherto the attempt to interest capital in the undertaking has been fruitless of results.

Even Mr. Newlands has not found it expedient to do anything practical in bringing under cultivation the many thousands of acres of arid land he has purchased in the State. The people naturally look to him to take the initiative in the matter. The State Board of Trade expended several thousand dollars in preparing data, securing the valuable services of "Common Sense" in the compilation thereof, who patriotically sacrificed personal ends for the public good at a salary of $125 per month, with many other perquisites, and the only result was to bring two gentlemen from Tennessee here, who, strange to say, saw no great opportunity for colonization upon land that had no water upon it.

THE SILVER QUESTION AND RECLAMATION.

The reclamation of silver would have brought about an era of agricultural development here. The opening of new mines and the influx of miners and their families would have called immediate attention to the opportunities for investment which our agricultural resources offered, and in addition the increased prices of farm products which would have followed as an effect from both these causes would have appealed to capital in a way that would not have been heard in vain. But at the present moment we have no immediate hope of free coinage, and instead of the farm products of the State advancing in price there is a more certain probability of a fall in prices.

Under these circumstances it is idle talk of beginning at State development by attempting an increase of our agricultural acreage. What we should do, in sound policy, is to make an attempt to ## SECURE A BETTER MARKET.

For what we are now producing, and the question of an increased acreage will in a measure take care of itself. Make a demand for more land by making farming more profitable in the State and we need not worry as to the capital being forthcoming for reclamation purposes.

The Agricultural Experiment Station here has done more for Nevada than all the Boards of Trade that may be established, and all the windy editorials that may be written. It has demonstrated that we can successfully grow sugar beets in Nevada having a higher sugar per centage than those raised in any other State in the Union, and this is a fact and no local exaggeration. It has likewise shown that the wild "sour dock," which is native here, is nothing less than "cannagie," the coming substitute for oak and hemlock bark in tanning leathers, and the demand for which is practically unlimited.

PRACTICAL DEVELOPMENT.

Upon agricultural lines in Nevada, in view of the conditions surrounding us, must begin not by inviting colonists here and showing them sagebrush tracts, however fertile, when destitute of water; nor by inviting the attention of capitalists to the construction of canals and reservoirs, whilst we raise all now that there is a market for, and not a very extraordinarily good market either as our farmers will testify. But our true line of development must come upon the line of affording our farmers a better market. To this end there is no more promising field than the construction of a beet sugar factory some where in one of our fertile valleys; the best location seemingly being at Lovelocks. One sugar beet factory, proving a success, will be a wedge for agricultural reclamation in this State that will insure its future prosperity without effort upon our part.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

In conclusion, will Congressman Francis G. Newlands head a subscription to the stock of a beet sugar factory in Nevada with an amount sufficiently great to allow the remainder of the $330,000 required to be raised by the other citizens of Nevada who are willing to venture in an undertaking of the character, when the matter is presented and proved to be a business proposition. If Mr. Newlands would subscribe $150,000 to a sugar beet factory, there is no question but that the remaining $200,000 can be raised among our people. This is the manner in which to go about State development, and all the efforts otherwise expended will have the labor for the pains.

CHICAGO'S DEAD MAYOR.

Biography of Carter H. Harrison. Mayor Carter H. Harrison, who was assassinated at his home in Chicago Saturday night by a crank named Eugene Patrick Prendergast, a paper carrier who alleged that Mayor Harrison, promised to make him Corporation Counsel, but did not do so, was one of the best known men in the west. He was born near Lexington, Ky., February 15, 1825, and was under engagement of marriage to Miss Annie Howard of New Orleans, who's father died some years ago and left her about three-quarters of a million dollars. His great-grandfather was the father of Benjamin, who was the father of President William Henry Harrison, and his grandfather was a first cousin of John C. Beckinridge and Benjamin Harrison. By the death of his father he was left at the age of 18 years to the care of his mother, who was a daughter of Colonel William Russell of the United States army, the great northwestern pioneer. Dr. Lewis Marshall, brother of the Chief Justice and the father of Tom Marshall, prepared him for Yale, where he graduated in 1845.

After graduating in law at Transylvania and traveling abroad for two years he settled in Chicago in 1855, invested in real estate and became rich. He was Commissioner of Cook County from 1871 to 1874, when he went to Congress, serving two years. He attracted attention during the Hayes-Tilden contest, when he introduced a resolution for a six-year Presidential term and making Presidents eligible for one term only but Senators for life at the expiration of their term. He was elected mayor of Chicago in 1879, 1881, 1883, 1885, 1893. In 1884 he was the Democratic candidate against Oglesby for Governor of Illinois, and in the same year was delegated-at-large to the national convention that nominated Cleveland.

After completing his fourth term as Mayor, he made a trip around the world and wrote "A Race With the Sun." In 1890 he visited Alaska and the National Park of the Yellowstone, and his book "Summers' Outing," added to his literary fame. In 1891 he purchased the Chicago Times, which he edited until elected Mayor last April, and which his sons now own. He was married in 1855 to Supple Preston. She died in Europe in 1876.

In 1882 he married Marguerite Stearns, she died in 1887, and he was to have been married in a few days to Miss Anna Howard of New Orleans. At the time of his death he was a candidate for United States Senator. During the past six months he has received the official visiting the World's Fair, and the different congresses and conventions from all parts of the country and world, and his welcome addresses constitute a volume of happy thoughts and suggestions. His last address was delivered Saturday to visiting Mayors and municipal officers.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction King has received from A. F. Gunn, of the American Book Company, San Francisco, a very handsome oak chest containing objects to be used as models for drawing, and it has been presented to the Orphans' Home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Westerfield returned yesterday from a visit to the World's Fair. They enjoyed their trip East and arrived at home in excellent health. They do not attempt to describe what they saw at the exposition; they say it would take years to see it all and take a detailed description of what they did see.

Some of the boys at Marmol were drinking a little yesterday and had some trouble with the Superintendent. The latter went to Verdi and asked protection of Judge Souchean, who telegraphed for the Sheriff. Sheriff Caughlin in response to the telegram went to Verdi, and ascertaining that all was quiet at Marmol returned to Reno. No arrests were made.

A large number of the friends of Dan Barker attended his funeral and escorted the remains to their last resting place in Hillside Cemetery. Mr. Barker was a good and true man who had many friends and no enemies. May he rest in peace till the day of final reckoning, when many who make greater pretension to goodness than did Mr. Barker will take a place in line much below him.

"German Syrup"

A Farmer at Edom, Texas, Says:

"We are six in family. We live in a place where we are subject to violent Colds and Lung Troubles. I have used German Syrup for six years successfully for Sore Throat, Cough, Cold, Hoarseness, Pains in the Chest and Lungs, and spitting-up of Blood. I have tried many different kinds of cough Syrups in my time, but let me say to anyone wanting such a medicine—German Syrup is the best. That has been my experience. If you use it once, you will go back to it whenever you need it. It gives total relief and is a quick cure. My advice to everyone suffering with Lung Troubles is—Try it. You will soon be convinced. In all the families where your German Syrup is used we have no trouble with the Lungs at all. It is the medicine for the country."

RAIN IN JAPAN.

Queer Native Methods to Coax Showers in Times of Drought.

During the summer season in Japan droughts are very frequent, and the rice-fields, before so beautiful, presenting as they do all the different shades of green imaginable, gradually lose their brilliancy of color, turn yellow and parched, and threaten the total destruction of the crop. Not only does the rice suffer, but the wells dry up and necessitate the carrying of water from long distances. So a drought in Japan is indeed a great calamity.

After waiting and hoping in vain for a downfall of rain, the people turn out en masse to evoke the power of their deities to send them the saving showers. A procession is formed of perhaps 200 men, all nearly naked, who, carrying straw emblems representing the sun with rain pouring from it and with long streamers having prayers written on them flying in the wind, proceed to the nearest river or bay, where the whole company wades into the water until they are waist deep, and surrounding the emblems pray aloud and throw water on the images with both hands.

After doing this several times the procession is reformed, when it proceeds to the temple to pray again. This ceremony is repeated several times, and should the rain come in abundance prayers are offered in thanksgiving. Should it be only a shower, they blame themselves for not having prayed fervently enough and continue their devotions until a downpour takes place.

Another form of devotion for the same purpose takes place at nightfall, when a long boat is filled with men and paddled swiftly across the harbor, accompanying the prayers by the regular beatings of tom-toms and gongs. Sometimes at night, away down the bay, may be heard the weird sound of the tom-toms and the voices of the men gradually growing louder and louder as the boat approaches, each man bending to his paddle in regular time as it passes us swiftly and gradually disappears in the darkness and is soon lost to sight and hearing.—Yokohama Letter.

Snake Charming.

A snake charmer can, by a simple motion of his hand, make a moving snake stop instantly. The reason is this:

The snake is a most timid animal. His eyes, while dull to color and form, are quick to motion, especially if it is rapid. If any large thing moves very quickly too near him, he gets frightened and scurries off, while at certain distances the motion stops him if he is moving.

He stops from astonishment, fear or the wish to see what it is that moves. Hence he glides on unconscious of the charmer's presence near him so long as the latter remains quiet; the snake does not know him from a tree or a rock. But when he gives a sudden evidence of life the snake is astonished and immediately remains stock still.

In India and Africa the charmers pretend the snakes dance to the music, but they do not, for they never hear it. A snake has no external ears, and perhaps gives evidence of sound only through its skin, when sound causes bodies in contact with him to vibrate.

They hear also through the nerves of the tongue, but do not at all comprehend sound as we do. However, the snake's eyes are very much alive to the motions of the charmer, or to the moving drumsticks of his confederate, and being alarmed he attempts to strike.

A dancing cobra (and no other snakes dance) is simply a cobra alarmed and in a posture to attack. He is not dancing to the music, but is making ready to assail the charmer.—Harrison's Family Magazine.

Not Hard.

The conductor of a cable car approached a hard visaged woman and asked for her fare.

"Go on with you, now; I've paid you once," said the woman.

"No, you haven't."

"Yes, I have."

"Give me a nickel or I'll put you off."

"Do if you dare."

The conductor stopped the car and put her off.

"Rather a hard thing to do," said one of the passengers, "but it served her right, I suppose."

"Oh," the conductor smilingly answered, "it wasn't hard for me to do, but it isn't often I have a chance to get even with her. I love her husband."—Texas Siftings

Artificial Honeycombs.

An interesting east side street vendor of the German quarter is a stout, clean shaven, neatly dressed man who bears upon his head a shining tin pan filled with golden honeycombs. A spotless white head cushion receives the bottom of the pan, and a knife handle shows in air above the honeycomb. The latter, as well as its sweet contents, looks genuine, and doubtless east side Germans are tempted by the sight and are in comfortable ignorance of the fact that artificial honeycombs are nowadays filled with artificial honey, with the result of deceiving all save the bees.—New York Sun.

Following Instructions.

"Now, dear," she said as she stopped at the depot gate, "you will see that everything goes right about the house, won't you?"

"Yes, indeed," he answered.

"You will do everything just as I would if I were there?"

"I will," he replied earnestly. "I'll discharge the servant girl every morning before I go down town."—Washington Star.

A Big Footed Girl.

A collector of rarities at Keokuk, Ia., is the owner of an insole made for the shoes of the young Rainbow (Mo.) giantess. At the time these shoes were made—in the spring of 1891—the girl was only 17 years old, but even then she had a foot that would make "Big Foot" January of Ohio envious. The insole is 15 1/2 inches long and 5 1/2 broad.—St. Louis Republic.

BALD HEADS!

What is the condition of yours? Is your hair dry, harsh, brittle? Does it split at the ends? Has it a lifeless appearance? Does it fall out when combed or brushed? Is it full of dandruff? Does your scalp itch? Is it dry or in a heated condition? If these are some of your symptoms be warned in time or you will become bald.

Skookum Root Hair Grower

is what you need. Its production is not an accident, but the result of scientific research. Knowledge of the disease of the hair and scalp led to the discovery of what to treat them. "Skookum" contains neither minerals nor oils. It is a pure dye, but a delightfully cooling and refreshing tonic. By stimulating the follicles, it stops falling hair, once dandruff and grows hair on bald heads.

Keep the scalp clean, healthy, and free from irritating eruptions, by the use of Skookum Skin Soap. It destroys parasitic insects, which feed on and destroy the hair.

If your druggist cannot supply you send direct to us, and we will forward prepaid, on receipt of price. Grower, $1.00 per bottle; 5 for $5.00. Soap, 50c per jar; 5 for $2.50.

A MENAGERIE BREAKS LOOSE.

Wild Beasts Terrorize the Community Until Captured by the Circus Men.

A most exciting episode occurred near Danlay, Mo., the other day and promised for a time to upset the country for miles around. The woods were full of lions, tigers, panthers and other wild beasts.

Sells Bros' circus showed at Milan, Mo., Wednesday last and was on its way to Trenton. About 2 o'clock Thursday morning one section of the circus train turned a curve near Danlay, and three miles the other side of Milan, and three cages on the flat car broke the blocks which held them and toppled the car. The fall burst the cages, and the animals in them bounded off to the woods. In one cage were two lions, in another three tigers and in the other two leopards.

As these animals bounded into the woods they uttered the most terrible screams and roars, which alarmed the entire countryside. Terror struck the people when they broke, when it was learned that the woods were filled with wild beasts. Women and children remained indoors, while the men went round carrying loaded guns. All through that day and the following night the howls and screams of the wild animals could be heard, and a cow was killed by them, torn to pieces and partially devoured.

While the population hereabouts were keeping pretty well indoors, the circus men were endeavoring to capture their valuable property. Although the animals were wild, yet they acted very much frightened at their unexpected freedom. Some of the beasts had never known freedom, while others had been in captivity so long that they forgot how to act in the woods except to howl more in fright than anything else. The circus boys corralled the brutes, however, in a commonplace way by taking the empty cages into the woods and baiting them with huge chunks of juicy meat. They would locate an animal, set a cage near him and then "shoot" him into it as an old lady would drive chickens. In this manner all the beasts were finally captured, and peace once more reigned in the country.—Cor. St. Louis Republic.

A Cherokee Strip Romance.

Yesterday Joseph K. Bracken of Memphis and Miss Lillie McGlashin of Stillwater, O. T., came to this city and were married by the probate judge. The young lady had secured a fine claim near Perry in the Cherokee strip, and the judge told her that if she got married she would probably lose the claim. She laughingly replied that she would sooner have a man than a claim any day, and the ceremony proceeded. If afterward came out that the couple first met on the day of the strip opening, when he stopped to help her drive a couple of scorpions off the claim she had staked. He then went on, but because of the delay failed to get a claim, and finally returned to claim the girl he left behind him. After they had been married they returned to Perry, and the happy groom at once filed a contest on the claim taken by his bride, so if the department does decide that she cannot hold it he will get it, and it will still be in the family.—Guthrie Letter.

Sing a Sultan.

Miss Jenny Alghoff of Brighton, England, is suing the sultan of Johore for breach of promise. The sultan's attorney objected that his client, being a ruling monarch, could not be sued in England, but Miss Alghoff's lawyer replied that, inasmuch as the defendant had lived in England privately as Mr. Albert Baker, he had constituted himself sufficiently to be sued in England, and that, moreover, he was subject to the authority of the empress of India. The question will be argued next month.—London Graphic.

Getting Ready for the Snow-storms.

Three hundred men are now at work erecting snowsheds along the Cascade division of the Great Northern railroad line on both sides of the summit, and the forces will be increased as soon as possible to have them all completed before the 1st of November. The longest shed on the line will be about a half mile west of Wellington.—St. Paul Pioneer Press

A Sedentary Occupation.

Plenty of sitting down and not much exercise, ought to have Dr. Price's Pellets to go with it. They absolutely and permanently cure Constipation. One tiny, sugar-coated pellet is a corrective, or regulator a gentle laxative. They are the smallest, the easiest to take, and the most natural remedy—no reaction afterward. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks and all stomach and bowel derangements are prevented, relieved and cured.

A "cold in the head" is quickly cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. So is Catarrh itself. The proprietors offer $500 for any case which they cannot cure.
